Circuit Court Docket on our eighth page.

Eggs are 12 cts at the Creamery Grocery this week.

Peter Reese of Novinger, has three three-year-old steers, which he offers at $22 per head.

We regret to announce that Mr. S. J. Miller is quite sick. His disease has developed into typhoid fever.

The Q. M. & P. has a self-propelling pile driver. The only thing of the kind there is in the west.

Mr. S. J. Miller, of Kirksville, was a guest at our Fair last Friday. He is a clever gentleman and a fine judge of horses.—Home Press.

J. B. Fridley and wife extend grateful thanks to all who have so kindly assisted them, since the sad accident which befell their little son, Leroy.

About 100 veterans left for St. Louis via the Q. M. & P. railroad, last Monday morning.

Additions from Bullion and Brasher made the number about 200 from this county.

Some of our farmers have gotten hold of the idea that our new mill will not do custom work.

We wish to say to them that the mill will do both custom and merchant work, and that the custom work will be equal to the work of any merchant mill in the country.

W. R. Poor, a brakeman on the Wabash Western, while putting some traps off the front end of the train last Friday, lost his balance and went overboard.

The train was running about fifteen miles per hour, and he was considerably bruised. The engineer saw him fall and stopped the train and he was taken on board.

We invite the attention of our patrons to the advertisement of Wrought Iron Range Co., in this GRAPHIC. Their ranges have had an immense sale in Knox county and Adair. The representatives of this company will wait on you in a few days and take your orders.

W. W. Shelton will work in the northern half of the county, and C. E. Hilton in the southern half.

Rain began falling here at an early hour Monday morning and kept it up, almost without intermission till yesterday morning.

The soil has become soaked, and the wheat, rye and blue grass will make splendid growth in a short time. Three weeks of warm weather, such as we usually have at this season, will largely increase the supply of winter feed.

Last Monday evening shortly after the Cannon-ball train left Harvey, Iowa, the engineer was seized with something like a fit.

While the train was going at full speed the train men felt a jar as though the steam had been reversed. This attracted the fireman's attention and he glanced toward the engineer just in time to see him fall backward. The fireman caught him and prevented his falling out of the window, and then stopped the train. The passengers assisted in carrying him to the mail car. He was brought to Ottumwa where engines were changed. When they arrived there the Engineer was still unable to speak. He is a man who never drinks and his sudden attack is unaccountable.

A worse time could not have been selected for the G. A. R. encampment than the present week has proved to be. As here so has it been in St. Louis, a constant rain, making the streets miserable and every one damp and uncomfortable. The grand parade was postponed Tuesday on account of the weather, only to wait for a worse day. Wednesday morning the parade took place in a dreary rain. Ten thousand veterans were in line, and the harder it rained the more enthusiastic they became. Commander-in-Chief, Fairchild headed the parade, and Governor Larabee rode at the head of the Iowa column. Had the weather been fair, at least forty thousand men would have been in line. Considering the circumstances the parade was a great success.

PERSONALS

Miss ELLA EDMONDSON, of Clinton county is visiting relatives in this place.

DIED.
HUNTER—Saturday afternoon after a lingering illness, Mrs. Sarah Hunter, interred Sunday in the Kirksville cemetery, funeral services by Dr. Mitchell.

WILLIAMS—Of typhoid fever, Monday evening, Miss Mary Williams, aged 19 years. Burial took place at Waddle cemetery, Wednesday afternoon. Rev. E. Roszell conducting the funeral services.

WRY—Leland Dale Wry, son of James S. and Edna H. Wry, died at the home of his grandmother, one and a half miles south of Kirksville on Sunday morning, September 25. He was three years, nine months and three days old.

He was sick ten days and literally choked to death. He died of diphtheria.

Two deaths have afflicted this young family within the sixteen months past, the father having died a year ago last May. Thus, so soon, the young wife is left husbandless and childless and must "tread the vinepress alone." No, not alone if her trust shall be in the Lord. He alone can comfort and sustain the sorrowing heart. The home will be inexpressibly sad and lonely without the prattle of little Dale.

"His voice is silent? Ah, no! a prayer. Is borne to my ears on the midnight air." "She is lonely now in a weary land. Guard her, dear Lord, that her feet may stand Firm on the Rock."

SIMPSON ELY.
It is said that out of thirty-two young men of New York City, who were examined recently for West Point Cadetship, only nine were accepted as physically sound. The Inter Ocean of Chicago, contemplating upon this ominous fact, says: "such a note might well make the young men of our cities pause for a moment's thought. No man who violates the laws of health can have a healthy body. How few there are who do not study fashion and humor appetite more than they do the laws that pertain to a healthful body! Beer, the cigarette, too much amusement, and the hidden vices are making havoc with the physical manhood of our towns and cities." In the total abstinence and social purity movements of the present period the entire community should feel a deep interest, and extend to them cordial sympathy and support as timely and greatly needed agencies to arrest this race deterioration in the young men and boys of our time.—Voice.

Daniel Webster on Religion

On the 14th of November, 1848, Daniel Webster delivered an address in the Supreme Court of Massachusetts on the death of Chief Justice Mason.

The following beautiful and impressive passages are among his closing remarks:

"Nothing of character is really permanent but virtue and personal worth. These remain. Whatever of excellence is wrought in the soul itself belongs to both worlds. Real goodness does not attach itself merely to this life; it points to another world. Political or professional reputation cannot last forever; but a conscience void of offence before eternity. Religion, therefore, is a necessary and indispensable element in any great human character. There is no living without it. Religion is the tie that connects man with his Creator and holds him to his throne. If that tie be all sundered, all broken, he floats away, a worthless atom in the universe; its proper attractions all gone, its destiny thwarted and its whole future nothing but darkness, desolation and death. A man with no sense of religious duty is whom the scriptures describe in terse and terrific language as living, without God in the world. Such a man is out of his proper being, out of the circle of all his happiness, and away far, far away, from the purpose of his creation."

Story of Ye Dogge.

Once in ye very olde tyme a Merchant said to an Eddytor, "I don't thinke advertizing payes."

"Let me show yov," sayd ye Eddytor. "I will pvt 1 lyne in my paypr and not charge yov a penny."

"Allright," replied ye Merchant, "and we will see."

So ye Eddytor pvt ye lyne in his Paypr:

WANTED A DOGGE. JOHN JONES, 253 OLDE STREET.

Now yt happened that 400 People eache broghte a Dogge on ye next daye thereafter, so that Mister Jones (which was ye Merchant's name) was overruine with Dogges.

"Synce there are so manye Dogges," sayd he, "I thinke I might make some bysiness and will give you a penny for eache Dogge."

Ye people looke ye pennie eache for his Dogge because there were so manye Dogges, and Mr. Jones skynned ye 400 Dogges and made booties and gloves and thus mayd
